Funeral of the Late Col. Henry Curtis Saturday Morning.

BAR ASSOCIATION MEETING

Remains Arrive Tomorrow Afternoon or Evening—Interment at Chipiannock Private.

The remains of the late Col. Henry Curtis are expected to reach Rock Island from Marblehead, Mass., tomorrow afternoon or evening, accompanied by members of the family, and the funeral ceremonies will be conducted at the late home, 1127 Second avenue, at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. The interment in Chipiannock will be private and it is the request of the family that no flowers be sent.

The Rock Island County Bar association, which has lost few of its practitioners who settled here immediately after the war, will hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the court room and will take some appropriate action in consideration of the death of Col. Curtis.

Col. Curtis had a severe attack of heart trouble six years ago, from which he never fully recovered, though he had apparently been better the past two years. He was taken sick again Saturday, September 3, and died, as stated yesterday, at midnight Tuesday, surrounded by his sons and daughter.

Educated in East.

Col. Curtis, who was 71 years old, was born in Boston, August 13, 1834. As a boy he attended the Boston public schools, and from them went to the Rensselaer Polytechnic institute at Troy, N. Y., from whence he graduated as a civil engineer, coming to Rock Island in 1856, in the practice of his profession. In 1857 he married Miss Lucy R. Osborn, daughter of Marcus B. Osborn, one of Rock Island's earliest residents and lawyers. Mrs. Curtis died three years ago. Col. Curtis' war record abounds with interest, when presented more in detail than was possible yesterday. On August 14, 1861, he was commissioned first lieutenant in Company A, Thirty-seventh Illinois volunteers, which company he had been largely instrumental in organizing. August 22 the company was mustered into the United States service. December 31, 1861, he was commissioned captain. February 12, in skirmish near Springfield, Mo.

First Across Line.

February 17, Company A was first company of infantry to pass the Arkansas line and had a skirmish near Sugar Creek on the 18th. March 6, 7 and 8 he was in the battle of Pea Ridge, where he was twice wounded and also hit with a spent bullet. May 22 Capt. Curtis rejoined his company and resumed command. July 18, 1862, he was commissioned assistant adjutant general of volunteers. September 13, 14 and 15 he was under fire in the battle of Harper's Ferry, was captured and paroled. January 17, 1863, he was exchanged. May 10, he was under fire at Trout's Hill, Va., and May 17, was on the raid into Virginia. October 21 he joined Wolford's cavalry, cutting its way into Loudon, and in the skirmish at Philadelphia on the 22nd and 23rd. November 13, he took a cavalry detachment to Longstreet's crossing at Huff's Ferry, which on the 14th was surrounded and driven out by Longstreet's advance. November 15 and 16, he was in the fight at Campbell's Station, Tenn. November and December he was under fire in Fort Saunders and in the siege of Knoxville. March 21 he was appointed acting adjutant general to Gen. Schofield. January 5, 1865, he brought prisoners to Rock Island. March 13, 1865, he was brevetted major "for gallant and meritorious services in the field, and especially at the battle of Pea Ridge, Ark., March 6, 7 and 8, 1862." March 13, 1865, he was brevetted lieutenant colonel "for gallant and meritorious services at Campbell's Station, East Tennessee, November 16, and during the sieges of Knoxville in November and December, 1863."

Col. Curtis was a member of the Loyal Legion of the United States.

As a Member of the Bar.

At the close of the war, Col. Curtis returned to Rock Island and took up the practice of law, associating himself with his brother-in-law, Charles M. Osborn, under the firm name of Osborn & Curtis, which was not dissolved until 1881, when Mr. Osborn removed to Chicago. Col. Curtis continued the practice of law until he went east this summer. In 1900 the firm of Curtis & Curtis was organized to conduct the abstract of title part of the business, his son, Hugh E. Curtis, associating himself with his father. Col. Curtis, in addition to being for years master in chancery of Rock Island county, was also for a long period attorney here for the Rock Island road.

Col. Curtis is survived by three sons and one daughter: Henry R. Curtis, of St. Paul, Minn.; Osborn M. Curtis, of New York city; Hugh E. Curtis, of Rock Island; and Mrs. Horace Walker Jones, wife of Lieutenant Commander H. W. Jones, U. S. N., now stationed at Washington, D. C.

CORRECT IN CUT, PERFECTLY TAILORED NEW FALL STYLES

WHILE we are accustomed to take the lead in selling good clothes, we have this season certainly beaten all our past records. We are now ready to clothe Men, Boys and Little Fellows with garments that have a reputation for superiority and excellence. There's no better clothing made than the kind we sell. Please bear this in mind. Then again, we ask your attention to the fairness of our prices, prices that we know will please and satisfy you. Take, for instance, our $15, $18, $20 or $25 fine, hand-tailored Men's Suits, or our $3.95, $5 and $7.50 Knee Pants Suits. These garments have unusual merit and we doubt if you have ever seen such perfect fitting, skillfully tailored and stylish garments sold at these prices. It is true that you can find the same prices at most any clothing house, but not the garments at the prices—not by any means.

Among the Fall Styles, the new model double breasted and the straight front sack will be great favorites. The coats are longer, wider collars and lapels, more fullness than ever in the chest. Trousers fuller at the knees and front and less so on the side. Vests cut slightly lower. The fabrics consist of neat, plain mixtures as well as wide Wale Grey Worsteds and fine Blue Serges. These are the colorings and styles good dressers will wear and we are prepared to show them.

Remember that we stand behind every sale we make with a strong guarantee, a guarantee that says to you that you are at perfect liberty to return any article you buy here and get your money, should anything prove unsatisfactory. We ask that you consider these points carefully, and when ready to buy, we shall be pleased if you will call and ascertain if we stand ready to do all we claim we will do.
